

TABLE OF CONTENT

Introduction	5
1. Building knowledge in education from the perspective of Constructivism ..	9
1.1. Understanding the concept of knowledge	10
1.2. Assumptions of Constructivism as a theory of learning	13
1.3. Educational applications of the idea of Constructivism	18
1.4. Building knowledge by means of creative ICT-enhanced tools	28
1.5. Factors motivating the building of knowledge in action	35
2. Diagnosing students' information competencies in using ICT in everyday practice	43
2.1. Research assumptions	44
2.2. Reasons for using ICT by children and adolescents	47
2.3. Reasons for non-using ICT by children and adolescents	86
2.4. Differentiating factors	94
3. Constructivist building of knowledge – final reflections	113
3.1. Reasons for taking action by students in the ICT world – summary	114
3.2. Hybrid educational methods – good practices	118
Bibliography	129